Forecast For London & Southeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Thursday 11 Feb 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Fine but with a raw breeze Friday. Eastern parts brightest.

This Evening and Tonight:
Very cold overnight, with a widespread hard frost developing under clear spells, especially in rural areas. Becoming breezier generally later in the night, but especially in western coastal districts. Minimum temperature -6 deg C (21 deg F).

Friday:
Fine throughout with some sunshine, although perhaps periodically turning hazy under high cloud in western parts. Remaining cold generally however, with a raw-feeling breeze, this perhaps easing slightly later. Maximum temperature 1 deg C (34 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Fine at first, but cold, increasingly cloudy and windy Saturday. Coastal gales Sunday, with sleet and perhaps briefly freezing rain spreading east later. Unsettled but less cold from Monday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.